Tausigs, Errants, OI Remain Undeclared In Hoop Tournament

Thursday—Three teams remain undeclared yet after Thursday games in the intra-mural basketball tournament. The Tausigs, Cougars and Unaffiliated, advances as the respective victors in the semifinal round.

The Unaffiliated group, unit 101, received a bye in the tournament by skipping out a close 23-21 victory over the Highlanders. Next meet for the winners, was at his four floor work and accurate shot.

Playing against a team of individual stars who proved too elusive and deadly shots at the basket, the Tausigs went down to a 27-23 massacre at the hands of the Tausigs. Errants and Christians were well served the majority of the Tausigs' shots, the center being high prize man of the game, as well as of the meet to say by ringing up twelve field goals and one foul shot for a twenty five point total.

With the consolation prize in sight the Highlanders social unit five turned back the first time in the 26 at 26-23. A team has to be defeated twice to be out of the Tournaments.

REGIONAL COLLEGES TO SPONSOR MODEL LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Exact League Procedure Will Be Followed To Acquaint
Students With System

DENVER, Colorado, Nov. 14.—University students of the entire region will combine to sponsor a model assembly of the League of Nations in Denver next spring. Exact procedure approved by the League will be followed in the sessions and real problems of international importance will be discussed from an agenda prepared in advance.

As far as may be practical, students native to the countries which they represent will comprise the delegations. These persons will be trained in similar classes with a special reading course suggested by experts in problems of international relations.

This is the first significant effort to introduce the League of Nations to students and citizens of the Rocky Mountain region. Several University of Denver groups have already pledged support and city and state officials have indicated unofficially that they will join the University in the venture.

OR. MAN EXPLORES SCHOOL CLOSING RUMOR IN SPIRITED ADDRESS

Says Problem Is One Of Finance
Which Will Be Met By The Alumni

Graciously Puts Out School As Banyan Tree With Loyal
Supporters

The Brigham Young University "will not be closed," was the message which Apostle Richard R. Lyman of the council of the Twelve and president of the Alumni of the institution, brought to the students and faculty assembled in Devotional exercises Wednesday morning. He spoke of the closing of other Church schools and pointed out that this action had been beneficial to the communities concerned.

He stated that as long as this school, with its training and its atmosphere of preaching the Gospel to educated classes of people, developed in the future, it would be a blessing to the community. He stated that the school would be a blessing to the community.

Problem Is One Of Finance

The problem which is at the bottom of any agitation to close the institution, is the financial situation.

President Lyman described a campaign that is to be launched by the Alumni organization to raise funds for the institution and former students to express their regard for the B. Y. U.

He compared the school to a Banyan tree, which has outlived its usefulness in a multitude of studies, but in protest quelling the old familiar touch not a single bough in youth it sheltered me, and I'll protect it.

The music for the assembly was furnished by the mixed chorus. Prayer was offered by Dean L. John Mat.

Kansas Health Board Says Osmulation Is Best In Fresh Air

KISSING RULES

Eleven rules for the guidance of kisses were issued by the Kansas Board of Health and the United States Public Health Service.

The instructions, published in the Commissioner, organ of the health service, as "Health Rules for nurses and doctors," follow:

Don't kiss in crowded places. Don't kiss on stairs, in fairs and food shows, in theaters, department chain groceries or elevators.

Don't kiss in any poorly ventilated room. There should be plenty of fresh air. It is a prime necessity.

Never kiss in movie or picture houses.

Guard against sudden changes in temperature when kissing. Kissing in a room which is too warm or too cold will appear the next minute as chills and fever.

Don't kiss any person who has chills and fever.

Avoid kissing anyone who has the flu or any other contagious or infectious disease.

At a party where playthings and similar games are stocked, be sure to handle frequently.

If you feel "all right" after kissing or being kissed, take a hot mustard foot bath and avoid drafts.

Be on your guard against contracting or disseminating any ailment or disease of any kind or description.

If you must practice the art of kissing, do it on the quiet and not in public.

Secondary Teachers Improving Rapidly Says A. N. Merrill

The secondary teaching department of the Brigham Young University is presenting a prosperous outlook. According to Professor A. N. Merrill the students training this quarter are doing creditable work and should develop into very competent teachers. The schools of the district will receive reports for the first period of teaching. These records which become a part of the permanent records that are kept for reference when the students' applications for positions are considered, show that good work is being done.

A lady soliciting for a charity fund approached a Scotsman and handed him a card with the inscription:

"Charity Fund—Give TILL IT Hurts."

The Scotsman read it, then, with tears of grief in his eyes, handed it back to the fair solicitor.

"Lady," he said brokenly, "be verra like hurt!"

Wednesday night a large crowd thronged the Ladies Gym at the main dance. By the peppy music of the Collegians orchestra they just "Painted the clouds with sunshine." Tender words of love seemed to spray away "To my caravans of dreams."

EDUCATIONAL CONTRACTS WITH AMERICAN RED CROSS SHOW SIGNIFICANT TREND

Addressing an audience at Harvard last summer as official of the American National Red Cross observed that maladjustments were arising continuously to penetrate the surrounding walls of the country's educational system, to improve in some way, influence its trends, or relieve its overburden.

The fact that these well springs of education are so guarded makes it especially significant that the American Red Cross is accepted as increasingly numerous points of contact between its services and those of educational bodies and institutions throughout the nation.

Today in Physical Education departments of leading universities, the American Red Cross course in Swimming and Life Saving and First Aid is standard. Some of these courses originally were conducted by Red Cross representatives, and are now continued under experts trained and qualified according to Red Cross requirements. Some of the best instructors in these subjects who have served on the Red Cross staff formerly were college athletes, members of swimming teams, crews, etc.

Women's colleges not alone have adopted the Red Cross courses in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick and Nutrition, but many give credits for completion, including extension credits to teachers who take these courses.

These university contacts of the Red Cross are fitting capstones to foundations laid in the primary grades, and extending through high school and preparatory years, modified in the advanced school years.

Red Cross courses being used with credits granted by a number of schools for completion.

The combination of infusion of ideals of service with practical instruction enabling the individual students to render such service in a national and local spirit, seems makes the appeal of the Red Cross leads as the students mature, to a deeper interest frequently exemplified in community service in later years.

Here, too, the Red Cross stands ready, its local Chapters the medium for such service.

Strength of Red Cross activities is measured by general Red Cross membership, enrolled annually from November 11 to 28.

Goldberg Pronounces College Spirit Bunk

"I most certainly think that college spirit is in true, native, poetic setting in the human mind. Don't let me. Let me explain," Babe Goldberg said at the University of Chicago.

"First to define college spirit. I must let me say that I am concerned only with old age, bald headed gray hanging balded college spirit."

"I think you should find in the old college spirit who grasped his diploma twenty or twenty-five years ago and swore everlasting allegiance to every blade of grass that lifted its aspened blade upon the campus green. This is the only phase of the subject that is really important."

Split Is Matter Of Course

The grotesque display of love for the dear old Alma Mater during the undergraduate days must be taken as a matter of course. The undergraduate, unless he has premature breakdown of the arteries, cannot help being infected with the virus of love, glee, or enthusiasm for the flaming black and blue, or was it the crimson green and white?

The co-called under-graduate college spirit isn't spirit of all. It is merely a healthy display of temporary parental pride, principal lust to preserve the college. It is on a four year educational spree before going out into the world to pay his own rent. It is his college because he goes into it, it sleeps in it, it plays in it and it stays in it. It is naturally thinks it is the best college in the world of for no other reason simply because it is his college.

Breaks Neck For the Glamour

"You may say that when a boy is willing to break his neck for his college on the football field, he is displaying the highest form of college spirit. I don't think so. He is breaking his neck because he loves the glamour of it, and because all the other fellows are breaking their necks and because it is just a healthy kick which he likes to break his neck. I used to try to kill myself, making points for my side in a sandlot football game, and I don't believe I ever lived up to my mythical love for college. It is the spirit of wanting to win rather than wanting to express a love for grand old Wharton."

"The whole thing is relative. If there is any such thing as college spirit, it is in four year wear. After that it is just like bringing to a college only you go on for a year, if you go at all instead of every Thursday night. And then it's pretty hard to get good here."
